

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 7, 2005

Durham native elected to 2005-2006 International Board of Management Society

Durham, NC - DeWarren Langley, a sophomore earning a degree in business management with an emphasis in economics and a minor in leadership studies at Hampton University was elected to the 2005-2006 International Board of Directors of the Society for Advancement of Management.

Elections were held during the 2005 International Business Conference, "In Search of a Winning Strategy," in Las Vegas, Nevada held from April 3-6.

The Society for Advancement of Management, the oldest professional management society, is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization. SAM's mission is to provide an opportunity for the members to increase management skills and expertise through participation in programs and services designed to improve the professional quality of their knowledge, performance and leadership ability.

A native of Durham, NC, Langley was also awarded the SAM Regional Outstanding Student Award and the SAM National Outstanding Student Award. The Board of Directors elected 15 undergraduate SAM student chapter members to receive honors as National Outstanding Students of SAM. The national awards are designed to recognize the outstanding academic, extracurricular, and professional achievements of SAM students who have demonstrated commitment in management excellence through practice and personal merit.

DeWarren currently serves as the President of the Hampton University collegiate chapter of the Society for Advancement of Management, a post he has held since the first semester of his freshman year.

A 2003 graduate of C E Jordan High School, 2003 News & Observer Tar Heel of the Week, former Herald Sun columnist, and 2001 Citizen Award recipient, Langley plans to attend Duke University law school to earn a JD in business law and juvenile justice as well as a Masters in International Business. Professionally, Langley plans to work in corporate community relations with an opportunity to advance to the legal department of a Fortune 500 company. Additional, Langley hopes to own his own managerial and leadership consultant firm serving the private sector.

As a result of his unquenchable desire to serve others, he plans to be mayor of my hometown of Durham, governor of North Carolina and President of the United States.

For more information, please contact DeWarren Langley at (919) 423-8089 or dewarrenklangle@gmail.com.

###